NSW consumers make 60,398 telco complaints

Consumers in New South Wales took 60,398 complaints about telephone and internet services to the Telecommunications Industry Ombudsman (TIO) in 2011-12, according to the TIO's annual report launched today.

Across Australia, the TIO received a total of 193,702 new complaints in 2011-12, a decrease of two per cent on the previous year. Ombudsman Simon Cohen reported positive signs about improvement in the telco industry late in the 2011-12 financial year. "There has been a significant trend, since April 2012, of reduced complaints, with the last quarter being our quietest for almost two years," Mr Cohen said. "This is a positive sign that reflects the focus by a number of telcos on improving their customer service."

Against this overall result, complaints about mobile phones increased nationally by 9.3 per cent in 2011-12, with 122,834 new complaints about mobiles to the TIO last year, an increase from 112,376 the previous year.

Poor coverage, disputes about the total amount of bills and the quality of information given to consumers at the point of sale were common among New South Wales residents who made complaints to the TIO last year. Mr Cohen said the complaints made in NSW reflected those made by consumers across Australia.

Mr Cohen said two out of three of all complaints made to the TIO were about mobile phones, reflecting the rising use of smartphones. Poor coverage, billing disputes and the quality of information given to consumers at the point of sale were common issues.

The biggest increases in mobile issues across Australia were:

- financial overcommitment due to inadequate spend management tools (15,752 issues – double the number of the previous year)
- disputes over the total amount of a bill (13,943 issues – 33 per cent increase)
- disputed internet usage charges (10,556 issues – 150 per cent increase)
- disputed roaming charges (4,186 issues – 69 per cent increase).

"Complaints about mobile phone services continue to rise and it's very concerning that so many consumers who contact the TIO face unexpectedly high bills," Mr Cohen said.
