Queenslanders take 34,077 complaints to telco Ombudsman

Queenslanders took 34,077 complaints about telephone and internet services to the Telecommunications Industry Ombudsman in 2011-12, according to the TIO's annual report released today.

Across Australia, the TIO received a total of 193,702 new complaints in 2011-12, a decrease of two per cent on the previous year. Ombudsman Simon Cohen reported positive signs of improvement in the telco industry late in the 2011-12 financial year. "There has been a significant trend, since April 2012, of reduced complaints, with the last quarter being our quietest for almost two years," Mr Cohen said. "This is a positive sign that reflects the focus by a number of telcos on improving their customer service."

Against this overall result, complaints about mobile phones increased nationally by 9.3 per cent in 2011-12, with 122,834 new complaints about mobiles to the TIO last year, an increase from 112,376 the previous year.

Mr Cohen said two out of three complaints made to the TIO were about mobile phones, reflecting the rising use of smartphones. Poor coverage, billing disputes and the quality of information given to consumers at the point of sale were common issues among Queenslanders. Mr Cohen said the complaints made by Queensland's telecommunications users reflected those made by consumers across Australia.

The biggest increases in mobile issues across Australia were:

- financial overcommitment due to inadequate spend management tools (15,752 issues – double the number of the previous year)
- disputes over the total amount of a bill (13,943 issues – 33 per cent increase)
- disputed internet usage charges (10,556 issues – 150 per cent increase)
- disputed roaming charges (4,186 issues – 69 per cent increase).

"Complaints about mobile phone services continue to rise and it's very concerning that so many consumers who contact the TIO face unexpectedly high bills," Mr Cohen said.

In proportion to its population, Queensland had the fifth highest rate of complaints in the country, with 7.8 complaints per 1,000 people. Victoria had the highest per capita complaint numbers, with 10.6 complaints per 1,000 residents.

In Queensland, Brisbane City residents and small businesses made more telco complaints per capita than any other suburb last year with 15.6 complaints per 1,000 people. This was followed by Surfers Paradise and surrounds with 15.2 complaints per 1,000 residents, New Farm (14.8) and South Brisbane and surrounds (14.8).
